

DEKRA INSIGHT INKS EXCLUSIVE AGREEMENT TO ADD FATIGUE RISK MANAGEMENT SERVICES WITH ROUNDTHECLOCK RESOURCES

Oxnard, CA - September 1, 2015– Global safety consulting, testing, and advisory firm DEKRA Insight, today announced a partnership with noted organizational psychologist Dr. Susan Koen (CEO) and consulting firm RoundTheClock Resources, Inc. (RTC) for exclusive integration of RTC’s proprietary fatigue risk management and brain-centric reliability services into DEKRA Insight’s workplace safety services.

RoundTheClock analyzes organizational cultures, structures and processes through the lens of circadian and fatigue physiology, as well as neuroscience, to identify the improvements needed to generate high reliability & performance in 24/7 operations.

“Science at the heart of safety. This is what DEKRA Insight brings to the workplace safety arena. We strive to find the best scientific approaches and use factual data to create a cultural shift within organizations. We are extremely proud to be working with RTC and Dr. Susan Koen to bring this new layer of scientific excellence to DEKRA Insight’s capabilities in process safety, behavioral reliability, and data analytics. This really is groundbreaking work and we are already integrating the fatigue risk management component into our client processes,” commented Colin Duncan, CEO of DEKRA Insight.

“We could not have found a better partner to work with than DEKRA Insight,” said Dr. Koen. “Their deep commitment and capability to improve people and process safety is second to none. We look forward to the successful synergy of our knowledge base with theirs, and to assisting more people and companies to achieve error-free and injury-free performance.
